Mark presented a very interesting and informative presentation which included pictures & videos of the lighting of many Olympic games torches.

All of the torches since the 2000 Sydney games have been made by Adelaide industrial combustion company FCT Flames.

We saw how the company worked on creating the amazing cauldrons and explained how different gases were used.

Mark also explained how they overcame difficulties in the designs they were asked to create .

One story he told was of the archer who was to shoot an arrow into the cauldron to light the flame but the arrow went behind the cauldron so they had to press a button to light it.

A side story at this event was that the night before it was lit, pigeons decided to sleep in the cauldron and came to a rather hot end.

Everyone thoroughly enjoyed seeing all the beautiful and amazing creations and were impressed by the fact that an Adelaide company was responsible.

Vote of thanks: David Giles

David described well, how we were all fascinated with the subject and how most of us had never thought about what was involved in the making of the torches.
